

FIRST OF COURSE.

Crowded Opening Night in Chickering Hall.

Dr. Greene's Grand Illustrated Course of Lectures.

The Greatest Interest and Enthusiasm Expressed.

Free Admission Granted to Everybody.

The Other Lectures of the Course Also Free.

A grand lecture, replete with many grand truths and great ideas, was that delivered last evening in Chickering Hall by Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th street, New York City.

The fame of this celebrated scientific physician is so widespread that the occasion attracted a large and cultivated audience who listened, spell-bound, to his glowing sentences, and went away feeling they could well congratulate themselves at being able to enjoy so rare and so rich a treat.

Dr. Greene undoubtedly stands today without a rival in this great field of chronic and nervous diseases, their cause, history and cure, and all that he has to say upon such an important and vital subject is stamped with unimpeachable authority. His marvelous, impressive and instructive treatment of his subject, and his no less successful treatment of his great army of patients, alike attest his title to be ranked as the foremost physician of his age in nervous and blood diseases.

It might be said that the world turns out to hear him, and all are made glad. They listen with breathless attention to his splendid descriptions of the human system, and its multiple and multifarious functions in health and sickness, and they go to their homes profoundly impressed with his vast learning, remarkable ability and unexcelled experience which Dr. Greene always displays, convinced that at least one physician understands thoroughly these nervous afflictions, and is prepared to cope with them successfully.

The Doctor is both entertaining and instructive; his minute and comprehensive descriptions of the various organs and their functions, of the blood, nerves, stomach, liver and kidneys, and their respective work in the process of life in health and disease are

So Vivid and Clear

That one at once feels like turning to him as the man who can surely cure. And time has vindicated and justified this confidence, for while others have seemed to grope in the dark, the Doctor has walked in the light; while others have searched and experimented to no purpose, he has made wonderful advances; and while others have failed, he has succeeded.

It is said that the poet is born, not made; and all feel when listening to the eloquent and instructive periods of this famous man, that the true physician who can successfully penetrate the mysteries of the human system, and minister to his ill and needs, is just as surely born, and not made, as the poet. Surely it is a gift of genius which Dr. Greene possesses to be able to accomplish such marvelous results—no mere product of books or schools. Nature seems to have designed him for this supreme mission to suffering humanity, and she has endowed him with the necessary capacity to do the work. Hence he is able to so simply the subject in his lectures, and make it plain to the commonest understanding, that no one can go away without comprehending the truths he illustrates and the dangers he reveals.

Society to-day is filled with overburdened and overworked men and women, tired and run down; mentally as well as physically worn out. There never was a time when nervous and chronic disease in every form was so prevalent or overshadowed such frightful results to society. Unless remedied the inevitable outcome of it all is easily to be seen. Unless the end is speedily averted millions of these struggling, suffering men and women will become the victims of nervous depression, of a state of nervous and physical collapse. Thousands already feel the effects of this nervous tension and worry in weak and enfeebled nerves, blood disorders, stomach weakness, liver derangement, kidney complaint, neuralgia, head and back aches, and innumerable ills incident to such a condition.

The Doctor has made these specialties a life study, bringing to the task the learning of an expert and the enthusiasm of a philanthropist, and the vast amount of good he has already accomplished through his marvelous remedies has brought rejoicing to every land. No other physician has shown, or can show, such a brilliant record of wonderful cures as Dr. Greene.

Our health is to be prized above all things. The most glittering crown would ill become a sick sovereign, and the strongest scepter is weak when wielded by an invalid arm. Without health

Success is Impossible

And life a burden. Lost, what would we not give to have it restored? It should never be neglected; it is criminal to do so. But it cannot be trifled with. If suffering, we should go to the highest and best authority. Dr. Greene is the one authority on whose skill implicit reliance can be placed. Don't hesitate; don't delay.

There is an end to everything in this world—even to mortal life. Act before the night comes, while it is yet day. Life is now in our keeping in a much larger degree than we at first believe. Consult the wisest; go to the best. See that you are on the right road. You can prolong your life or shorten it. See to it that your body is in perfect condition—that you are strong and well for your work. Remember that Doctor Greene, whose office is at 35 West 14th street, New York City, charges nothing for consultation and advice. The truths of science he has gathered, he disperes "without money and without price." Everyone in all this broad land is privileged to consult him, either personally or by mail, without any expense. You have only to state to him how you feel, either by calling at his office or by writing him, and he will quickly determine your troubles and provide sure and safe remedies to cure you. You have perhaps treated for your complaint with your local doctor until you have given up in despair. Remember, Dr. Greene is a specialist in such diseases. You have no right to neglect such an opportunity, or reject such an offer. You have no right to be sick when health is within such easy reach. Don't delay. See or write the Doctor and he will effect a cure of your ailment and admit you to the healthy host of sufferers restored to health and strength by his marvelous remedies.

Diphtheria. * Less Fatal. If the patient's strength can be maintained, and the great vital centres of the body "kept up" to the performance of their natural functions, they will thus dispel the disease germs that impregnate the entire body, and if sufficient vitality is experienced, the fatality of this dreaded disease is lessened a hundred-fold.

Financial. Before Midday the Buying Fever on the Exchange Abated. New York, Oct. 14.—Speculation at the stock exchange was quiet again to-day. At the opening the market was strengthened by reports from Chicago that the Western Freight association had agreed to restore rates on November and that negotiations were on foot looking to an adjustment of the Colorado railway difficulties. The fact that the fortnightly settlement in London was progressing favorably also had a good effect during the morning session.

The improvement at this time was equal to 4 1/2 per cent. Lackawanna, Chicago Gas, the grangers, Sugar, Louisville and Nashville and the Southwestern all participating in the upward movement. Before midday, however, the buying fever abated and from the time mentioned the tendency of the market was downward. Chicago Gas, which had sold up to 7 1/2, fell to 6 3/4. It was rumored that the Flower-Bradley reorganization committee had secured sufficient stock under its call for deposits with the Central Trust company to make application to have the certificates listed at the stock exchange. A member of the firm credited with taking the initiative in the work of bringing the company in line with the laws of Illinois was seller of puts on the stock to-day at 65.

Leather preferred was more active, and after falling 2 per cent. to 7 1/2, rallied to 8 1/2. A story was current that the Board had secured the control of certain important outside enterprises, but this was subsequently denied. Brokers stated that the stock is more easily obtainable for borrowing purposes than at any time since it has been listed at the board.

In the railway list Manhattan developed weakness and fell from 111 to 109 1/2. While Chicago and Eastern Illinois preferred rose 3/4 to 102 1/2. The general railway list was dull and featureless after the spurt at the opening and in common with the industrials closed rather weak. Net losses for the day were 1/4 of 1 per cent.
